THE OLD BOARD WALKS

A Recent Accident In California Hollow.

THE BOARDS ARE CURLING UP
James McGonagle Was the Unfortunate Victim—Other Cases Known—The Walks Are In a Miserable Condition, and Should Be Fixed—Complaints Are Numerous.

If some move is not soon made it is probable that the city will have another damage suit on its hands and all because the board walks are allowed to remain in the present rickety condition.

For months complaints have been heard because of the walks. In winter they squirted dirty water up the trouser leg of more than one pedestrian, and in summer they work so as to make walking at night anything but a pleasure. Boards turn their edges to the sun, and a belated traveler is in danger of knocking the skin from his shins if he is not so well acquainted with the walk as to keep a countless number of these awful things in mind. An accident in the West End might have caused the city a suit, and several on the Calcutta road have brought imprecations loud and deep. Other walks of less importance are in even worse condition, and are daily growing more undesirable for the people who are compelled to pass over them or brave the dust or mud of the roadway. Council has taken action, and a few walks have been repaired, but the vast majority have been allowed to go from bad to worse until they are almost impassable. The last victim to make his presence known is James McGonagle, a potter, who was walking on the excuse on Calcutta road. The walk was in its usual decrepit state, and one of his feet became caught in a hole in the walk and another board. The result was a wrenched ankle, which caused him no end of pain. It might be to the city's interest to move before some one is so seriously hurt as to think they should be recompensed for suffering and loss of work.

LADIES IN SALINEVILLE.

Missionary Methodists Have an Enjoyable Time.

The local auxiliary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church returned on Saturday evening from Salineville, where they have been attending a missionary convention, and covering themselves with glory. They numbered 20, and were in charge of Doctor Huston, the convention being the gathering of what is known as the Steubenville district. Prominent among the speakers were Mrs. Mills, wife of Dr. J. R. Mills, of Painesville, Mrs. Alice Knee, Harlem Springs, Doctor Pope, Steubenville, and Doctor Huston. The meetings were full of interest, and the auxiliary were proud of Isabelle Thornburn Mission band, of East Liverpool. The ladies who took part in the program were Misses Ruby and Nina Kinsey, Floyd Miller, Miss Emma Maple and the Salineville choir rendered excellent music. The next convention will be held in this city the first week in June. The ladies spent a most enjoyable time, and were royally entertained by Salineville.

COULDN'T GET AWAY.

Ben Gregg, the Motorman, Arrived Too Late in Lisbon.

Ben Gregg, the motorman who was so badly wanted before the Martin case could come to trial, arrived in Lisbon on Saturday night a few minutes before it became Sunday. He was on what is known as a swing run in Toledo, and could not get away, but did not receive the telegram of Superintendent Andrews in time to prevent starting when he did. Finding no court in Lisbon he came to this city and spent yesterday with his friends.

James Brown, another motorman wanted by the defense on the witness stand, was in Wheeling and could not leave his work in time to be present at the opening of the trial. He too, was here yesterday shaking hands with the boys and enjoying a day. Gregg and Brown will both be at the trial June 24.

TORE THE DRESS.

Two Girls and a Wife Fence Have an Experience.

Two young girls, whose names are not known, had an amusing wrestle with a wire fence on Saturday. They came across the fields in the rear of the brewery, and not knowing the presence of the wire fence had not prepared to cross the obstruction. After a little conversation one girl wiggled under the fence as gracefully as possible, but the other feared to try that method. More conference followed, and at length the strands were parted. By the aid of her companion she managed to get through, but not before her clothes were torn, and the wicked crowd witnessing the performance had laughed.

TRUSTEES IN SESSION.

Poor Authorities Meet at the Infirmary.

The township trustees and clerks held their annual meeting at the infirmary on Saturday, and were royally treated by Superintendent and Mrs. Riddle. Clerk Hanley and Trustees Lloyd and Beardmore were present from this place, and all the townships were represented except Butler, Center, Elkrun, Franklin, Middleton, Perry, Yellow Creek. The infirmary directors were also at the meeting, and the first duty was to inspect the buildings. They were found in the best of condition, and containing 59 males and 43 females, with five children, making a total of 102. There was no sickness among them, except the cases arising from the infirmities of old age and imbecility, and these are well cared for. Dinner was served by Superintendent Riddle and his estimable wife, 66 persons sitting down to the table. The number of visitors present was not as large as usual, and the business was transacted without interruption. The election of officers made Thomas Lloyd the president and Ira Kennel the secretary. The question of improving the roads and making a stand for the relief of the poor was discussed, and the conclusion reached that each board could best handle such matters individually, owing to the many different aspects of the cases before them. The matter of extending the telephone service to the infirmary met with approval, and James N. Hanley, William C. Frazier and W. H. Aterholt were appointed to act with the directors. A vote of thanks was given Superintendent and Mrs. Riddle for the splendid entertainment, and the cleanly condition in which the infirmary is kept. The next meeting will be held one year from last Saturday.

CHILDREN'S DAY

Appropriately Celebrated in the Churches Yesterday.

Children's day was appropriately observed at the First and Second Methodist Episcopal churches in the city yesterday.

At the First church the program was all that could be asked, a large number of the children and older persons taking part in the exercises. Secretary Morris, of the Young Men's Christian association, explained the origin and purpose of the occasion, and the program was carried out without a jar. The audience room was beautifully decorated, evergreens being liberally displayed everywhere. The music was exceptionally good, and the occasion one not soon to be forgotten.

At the Second church a special program was given the younger members of the church and the Sunday school taking part. The decorations were pretty, and the music very good. The crowd was larger than the church would hold.

Reverend Green gave the first of a series of talks at the Second United Presbyterian church in the East End last evening. He preached to the parents of the congregation, and on next Sunday evening will talk to the young people.

Telephones for Grocery Stores

Manager Swaney is putting telephones into several grocery stores today, and anticipates that others will soon be provided. The grocers are doing this upon the strength of the belief that an instrument will soon be stationed at Spring Grove. The movement for this was started early in the season, and will probably be carried out successfully, as many residents of the campground are anxious for telephonic communication with the city. The telephone will be connected with Wellsville central.

A Fire Stead.

Lyman Rinehart and his fiery, untamed steed amused a crowd of spectators on Fourth street this afternoon. The horse insisted on using the pavement for a roadway, and the driver was equally anxious to have him take the middle of the street. One amusing incident was the manner in which a muscular bystander put his shoulder to the wheel and almost forced the horse from his position. After numerous attempts Rinehart won, and the horse trotted peacefully away.

Expecting Visitors.

The Daughters of America at their meeting tomorrow night will initiate three candidates. They expect several of the state and national officers to visit the lodge at that time.

ON A RARE OLD CHARGE

John Brown is Behind the Bars Today.

HE IS ACCUSED OF LARCENY

It is a Case Which Dates Back to April, and John Protests His Innocence—To Be Heard Tonight—No Saloon Raids Yesterday—Allison Released.

John Brown was arrested at the house of Jack Allison on Second street on Saturday night, an old charge being against him at city hall. The story, as told by the police, dates back to April 21, when John Slack came here from Franklin Square, and went to Rinehart's stable on Second street. He claims that he fell asleep there, and in a few hours awoke to find that he had been robbed of $24. He complained to the police, suspecting Brown, but when the officers sought him, the wily Brown had fled. He went to McDonald and worked there for a time, but changed his abode to a point over the river a few weeks later. Since then the police claim he has been in hiding near the city, and they lost no time in giving him a cell when he appeared in town. He declared he was innocent when arraigned, and Mayor Gilbert decided that he should have a hearing tonight.

John Allison the bold, was released from jail yesterday, this time by due process of law, and not by way of that window. He paid the mayor $35 for the privilege of walking away, some of the money being secured from James Duke, who bought the pony. Mr. Albright manifested no desire to push the case.

Persons near the watch box at the Second street crossing were startled last night when they saw an old post burst into flame, and burn like some big taper. The smoke mounted high in the air, and attracted the attention of Officer Meador who chanced to be nearby. He walked to the spot, and looked for James Dorf, a Second street man who was credited with starting the fire, but that individual had quietly slipped away. He did not enjoy his liberty long for the officer learned his whereabouts, and soon had him behind the bars at city hall where he remained for the rest of the night.

In spite of the heat and the good weather for beer not a saloonist was caught napping by the police yesterday. They had an eye wide open for all offenders, but there seemed to be a general opinion that the police were only watching an opportunity to replenish the treasury by another fifty, and no open bars could be found. The lessons taught in police court during the past few months seem to have a cooling effect upon the ardor of those desiring to break the law.

EARL WAS THERE.

And His Watch Showed That McFadden Closed Up Late.

Officer Earl was in Dew Drop alley Saturday night and he observed that John McFadden was late in closing up.

McFadden keeps where Jacob Bartel had his saloon. Earl said it was 11:08 by the fire station clock, so he arrested McFadden and charged him with keeping open after hours. James Mullen and Peter Devine were charged with being in the place.

McFadden and the others pleaded not guilty and the hearing was set for this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The case will no doubt be interesting, as McFadden says his clock was striking 11 when he closed up. As the fire station clock is set from McKinney's regulator and McKinney's and Poland's differ, it is doubtful just what time it was. The hearing was delayed until Friday afternoon, a jury being asked.

IN TRAINING HERE.

The Eclipse Racers are Preparing For Victory.

The Eclipse racing team, made up of some of the fastest riders in this part of the world, are in the city training on the East End track. The team is made up of C. C. Aughenbaugh, Bert Irons, Eddy Morrow, John Weisner, Trainor Bruff and George Hales. They are preparing for the Pittsburgh Athletic club races, and will be here for 10 days. They have a tandem with them, and propose to make records among themselves while here. The boys are speedy, and have already done some time on the track.

ROLLED IT AWAY

Six Kegs of Beer Stolen Yesterday Morning.

Some thirsty souls, who could not content themselves in peace without the amber fluid on a warm day like yesterday, provided for the emergency by breaking into the storage house of Joseph Turnbull in an alley off Second street, and rolling away six kegs, commonly known as eighth, at an early hour yesterday morning. It is not known how the crowd got away with the stuff, but rolling is the theory preferred by those who have heard the story. There is no clue to the thieves as they left nothing by which they could be identified.

CORRECTED AN ERROR.

A Law Journal Placed John McGarry in the Wrong Light.

The Weekly Law Bulletin, the journal by which the legal fraternity in Ohio swear, this week contained the following:

"An error occurred in our notice of the admission to the bar of the graduates of the Cincinnati Law school. The average of Michael J. McGarry, Esq., was $9.3 instead of $0.3, as it was printed. The faculty informs us that Mr. McGarry was one of the most faithful and brightest students of the school."

The many friends of John McGarry in this city will be pleased to learn that the Bulletin corrects the error, as it undoubtedly placed him in a light which none desired to see. The corrected grade is ample proof that the faculty told the truth.

LOST THEIR SAVINGS.

The Collapse of a Building Association Felt.

The Freehold Building and Loan association, which collapsed in Pittsburgh a few days ago, caught a number of people in this vicinity. At Georgetown, opposite Smith's Ferry, O. E. and W. Peppard and Miss Annie Dittmore had about $700 of hard earned savings in the concern. They fear they have lost it all, and have no way in which to demand it from the courts. Several other persons in that vicinity come in for their share, making the loss in the neighborhood of $1,000. A Liverpool man who had money in the defunct institution asks to have his name kept from the public.

A NEW PLAN.

Observer Sees a Way to Extend Fourth Street at Small Expense.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—The dispute in regard to the extension of Fourth street could very easily be settled if council could catch the cue and cross the railroad at the flint mill office and complete the road to the glass house on the river side of the railroad and recross at the glass house, and continue the road on to Jethro, which in reality ought to be done. The cost of the road would be much less on that route. Take a look at this question in the proper light, gentlemen of the council, and you may yet change your views in the matter.

OBSERVER.

John S. Riddle.

An old sailor residing in New Brighton, Pa., a brother-in-law of Manager Palmer of the News Review, was buried from his late residence on Sunday afternoon, with the honors of war, Post 164, G. A. R., of which deceased was a member, and the Beaver Falls cadet drum corps taking part in the services. Deceased did gallant service for his country, and in his capacity as able seaman had visited all parts of the civilized world. He had a host of friends in the Beaver valley, who turned out to his funeral to do honor to his memory. A number of East Liverpool residents were well acquainted with "Jack."

A Little Light.

The light of knowledge is commencing to break over the Salem News, the publication that wondered with an awful wonder a few months ago why this place could poll such a vote for Charles Gill. In dissecting the return of the assessors it says:

"The rate of increase shown by Liverpool leads me to the conclusion that that city is destined to outnumber the balance of the county hopelessly ere many generations shall have passed away. It is no wonder that they are able down there to show up such astonishing votes when occasion demands."

A Preliminary Meeting.

The manufacturers are holding a meeting this afternoon for the purpose of considering an important matter which comes before a special meeting of the white granite compact in Pittsburgh tomorrow. The business is said to be important, but nothing is given out for publication.

Still Its Greater.

M. P. Neeves was here from the Smoky City Saturday and he registered from "Grtr. Pittsburg." Presumably this is the greater Pittsburg that has been mentioned several times in the city papers.

BRIGHTON WAS BEATEN

We Had a Score to Spare at the End of the Seventh.

SEVEN RICH RUNS CAME IN

When We Needed Them and So Did the Other Fellows—Some Good Plays—It Was a Battering Game and the Crowd Enjoyed It.

It was a battle royal on Saturday afternoon last. We had no idea of winning, but merely intended making a few scores, in order that 'tother fellows, from the Keystone state, might know that we had played ball on several occasions in times past. But fortune favored us and we crossed the rubicon one run to the good, in a seven inning game, by the score of 13 to 12. The following condensed account will show how the battle was won:

East Liverpool—Albright out on strikes. Twaddle out on little fly to second. P. McShane out from third to first. No runs.

New Brighton—Fullmer out, pitcher to first. Boyle to first on base hit. McNutt made a brilliant catch of Thompson's fly, after a long run. Farrow out on pop fly to short. Selah.

Howard, the hard hitting son of Africa, drove a lightning shot to Fullmer at third, which was stopped in best league manner and sent truly to first; better out. McNutt to first on passed ball. Kennedy struck out and McNutt caught by a beautiful throw to second. No runs.

Molter sent a fine drive, good for two bases, fully three feet inside of first, but Umpire Caler termed it foul, the batter finally reaching first on passed ball, and to second on wild pitch, Carr going to first on balls. Griffin hit to short, ball bounding over latter's head and Molter came home. With the bases filled, an error by third left Carr come in. Fullmer sent a beauty to right and reached third, sending in three Keystone lads ahead of him. Boyle sent a hot one over head of short and brought in Fullmer, Boyle on third. Thompson struck out. Farrow sent a pile driver to Howard at first which the latter handled superbly, retiring the batter with assistance of Orr, Boyle coming home in the meantime from third. Molter hit by pitcher and sent to first. Carr hit in ribs, took first and Molter second. Griffin out, third to first. Seven great big runs and the visitors jubilant.

Cartwright out, short to first. Rowe got a life on fumble by Murrin. Orr out on fly to first. Albright base on balls and Rowe to second. Thompson, in left field, muffed Twaddle's fly, Rowe and Albright racing home. McShane hit to left field and Thompson muffed it, Twaddle crossing the plate. Howard out on fly over Carr's head—neat backward running catch. Three lovely but unearned runs.

Harding made two bagger over Twaddle's head. Murrin out, pitcher to first. Harding home on nice hit by Fullmer to right. Boyle safe at first, forcing Fullmer out at second. Thompson forced Boyle at second, short to second. One run.

McNutt to first on error of third. Kennedy struck out. Cartwright to first on awful error of Farrow, a slow grounder, too easy for anything, and the groans of "Sike's" friends rent the atmosphere. No ice cream in that play, John, me darling. Rowe out on nice catch by Carr, running backward. Orr retired, Molter to Farrow. No runs.

Farrow out on long fly to McNutt. Molter safe at first on hot one past third. Carr out on muffed fly by third of an infield fly. McNutt gathered in Griffin's fly. Barren results.

Hard hitting and several errors gave the Liverpool boys seven rich and juicy runs. Howard's score 10 to 8 in favor of the Young Men's Christian association and everybody happy.

New Brighton was retired in short order, on a mess of goose eggs.

Howard, the smoked Yankee, hit a daisy cutter to center field and went all the way round, the best pleased and most jubilant coon in all Uncle Sam's domain. One run.

The Pennsylvania boys didn't have a ghost of a chance to score in their half.

Cartwright safe at first on base hit. Rowe hit to right, and Thompson, who had been changed from left, fell all over himself and part of the field. Cartwright racing home and Rowe going to third. Orr struck out. Albright out on fly to Carr. Twaddle to first on error by Carr. Twaddle coming home. McShane out on fly to Griffin in left. Two runs.

Griffin hit a beauty past short and went to first. The hit looked dead safe for a two bagger, but McNutt fielded it in superb manner. Harding forced Griffin at second. Murrin made

THE REASON WHY.

Dunn's report for last week shows continued improvement in business conditions. Iron mills are being operated and iron workers are receiving increased wages. The demand for money expands and crop reports are as a whole much more cheering than was expected earlier in the week. The price of iron, always a gauge of prosperity, is pushing upward with large orders upon which to draw, and other industries show a marked improvement. Taking all the sources from which the Dunn company derives its information, the only obtainable result is an indication that the fear of continued Democratic rule is at an end, and the people are once more willing to have confidence. There is no doubt that times are getting better; business conditions show that the people have money and are spending it.

But in the pottery towns, like in the morning, there is a difference. Hundreds of men are without employment at Trenton, and there is no denying that the workmen of East Liverpool are not suffering from over-time. Steubenville, New Cumberland, Wheeling, Cincinnati, Evansville and Peoria are similarly situated. The smokeless kilns rear their heads day after day, and the empty order books only serve to show the want. Instead of the presence of trade. To put it briefly—while many other industries are showing improvement, from the conditions of a year ago, the potters have no cause to rejoice and are therefore silent.

The solution is easy. There is no great thought behind it. Gorman & Co., did all in their power to ruin the pottery industry, and well nigh succeeded. Instead of raising wages as they promised, these deluded politicians, not statesmen, forced a reduction of 12 1/2 per cent, and then took away the trade. If this is justice it is the Democratic brand, justice of the order given at Andersonville and Belle Isle. But they can not be in power forever. There is a good time coming. It may be months away, but it is on the road. The next congress and the next and the next will undoubtedly be controlled by the Republican party, and the world knows what that means. It means America for East Liverpool and not for Doulton, Meakin and Johnston.

Until that time East Liverpool will get along as best it can, and that will be better than most people imagine. Even now, when the worst of the trouble seems to be over, the potteries are working a little, and the manufacturers are gradually bringing back the trade they lost by the low tariff. They are making the battle on merit, and unless there is a wonderful change the fall trade will be better than the spring business. But that does not deny the fact that the Democrats did all they could to ruin East Liverpool.

This is the whole truth in a (Kola) nut shell. Kola gives strength, and no reaction follows. Chew its essence as found in the Kola gum, and be convinced.

If you are in Wellsville any evening call at the new art studio and have a negative taken by the new process.

When you see people walking with an elastic step, you may depend upon it they chew Kola gum.

THE CHINESE BUY OUR "SANG."

The Herb Dug by Amelle Rives-Chanler's Taxis Goes to Them.

"There is quite a trade in ginseng," said the broker. "We export it to China, for the people of that country have a profound faith in its efficacy. It seems to be a cure-all with them. It is an old woman's remedy here—no one considers it as of any value, but the Chinese think differently. That which comes from Manchuria is esteemed better than ours; but, then, they take all we send gladly enough. No European nation sends any."

"The crop begins to arrive in June and keeps on coming till frost destroys the tops. We use the roots, and I believe they say the more forked they are the better. The last crop consisted of about a quarter of a million of pounds."

"Yes, it is growing scarce, for in the search the 'sang diggers' are exterminating it. Since I have been in the business—say, in 20 years—the price has risen from 80 cents per pound to $4. The plant grows in moist woods—in leaf mold—in every state east of the Rocky mountains. You have read a good deal about the 'sang diggers' of the North Carolina mountains, but there are people just like them at work within a hundred miles of the city—men, women and children, who find their work materially helps in getting a living."

"A man up in Onondaga county, in this state, has begun cultivating it, but at present he is giving his attention more to producing seed and urging others to cultivate it than producing the roots for market. He is an enthusiast on the subject."—New York Press.

"Christ Hath Risen."

All at once is heard in the distance the clear boom of the cannon announcing the hour of midnight. The Russian priest, standing on the steps of the altar, swings his censer and announces in tones which penetrate to the farthest corners of the edifice, "Christos voskres" (Christ hath risen), and the people answer him with one voice, "Vo istine voskres" (In truth he hath risen). The woman standing nearest the priest lights her taper at the consecrated one presented to her by him, her neighbor in turn receives the light from her, and so on, until in a minute, as it were, the chapel was illuminated with a hundred lights. Fathers and mothers, sons and daughters, friends and relations embraced one another, kissing three times on the forehead and either cheek and exchanging the Eastergreeting. The whole congregation, then passing before the priest, did so with him, and high mass now followed.—Chambers' Journal.

Sousa.

A resident of Cincinnati who knew Sousa, the bandmaster, when he was a boy in Washington, says: "His mother was a German and his father a Spaniard, and though they had other children Mrs. Sousa would always talk of 'my Chonny' as if he was the only one. Chonny had every whim gratified. He wanted a piano, and got it; a violin, and got it; a drum, and got it; a horn, and got it. His parlor was like a music store. He played everything with ease. He was at first a drummer boy in the army, but later got charge of the Marine band, whether by influence or merit I do not know. That gave him room to develop, and he did to an amazing extent."

He Was Foxy.

Tough Customer—How much are your neckties?
Clerk—A quarter, 50 cents, 75 and a dollar.
Tough Customer—See here, young feller, the sign outside says that this is a one price store. Now, don't you think you can bunk me! G'day—see?—Roxbury Gazette.

"Well, I don't know what else to call it. Not half the people who were invited came."—Detroit Tribune.

TURNER AND HIS GUN

DOUBLE-L ECK, THE COWBOY, AND HIS MODEST RECORD CLAIM.

How He Showed His Dislike For a Horseman Who Rode at a Trot—Finally His Spirit Was Conquered by a Mild Mannered Soldier With a Winchester.

Now and then a "bad man" tries to cultivate something which he mistakes for humor. One of these devotees of levity used to haunt the cattle range of western Kansas, and every fall and spring he appeared in Dodge City at the general "roundup." Every time he came to town he left some proof of a factious mind, and was very sure of being talked about by every idle man and most of the busy ones who remained when the rush was over.

His name was Eck Turner, though Dodge City will best remember him by the title "Double-L Eck," the duplicated capital being Leonard & Loughrain's brand, and he being one of their best riders. In fact, Turner might have been foreman if he had cared for the position, for he could ride well, and there were few more expert with the rope and probably none who could bear fatigue and hardship more patiently than he.

But the trouble was he wanted recompense for the dull life of a cowboy. He didn't care for money. Any wages going were acceptable to him. But when the cattle got rounded up and there was half a day's escape from the tedium of labor Eck Turner wanted his fling. And he always went into town and had it.

Now, a foreman cannot do these things. He must stay by the herd all the time, preserve a clear head and firm place in the saddle. He is the representative of the owner—the custodian of much wealth—and dissipation is not to be thought of.

One of Eck Turner's pet bits of humor was to pick out people whose appearance displeased him and shoot just near enough to them to express his sentiments. He particularly disliked to see horsemen go by on the trot. It was in a cowboy country, and cowboys galloped, whether or not they were in a hurry.

And if the rider had a habit of "rising" in the stirrups, as conventional trotters often do, Eck Turner hated him violently. So that when he came down Main street one day and saw a rather well dressed man go by trotting and "rising" with the motion of his horse Eck called general attention to the spectacle.

Really the trotter was not a very good horseman. It was possible, as Eck observed, to "see daylight under him" every time he rose in the saddle. And the glimpses of that recurring "daylight" provoked Eck to a bit of pistol practice. "I bet," said he, watching the rider and reaching for a large revolver, pretty well back on his belt, "I bet I can shoot between him and the saddle and never touch a feather."

He had been drinking in so decorous a manner as to be dangerous, and so no one interfered. The rider was half a block away when Eck fired, and the bullet must have gone true, for the rider passed on unconscious, while a sign diagonally across the street was shattered by the shot.

He tried it again later in the day and fortunately—miraculously—escaped the infliction of injury. Dodge City talked about "Double-L Eck" and his new joke all summer, and in the autumn he came in and tried it again.

The first shot he made he hit a man in the leg and was very indignant because they would not give him another chance, assuring the crippled victim it was an accident, and urging him to mount and trot past just one time more, rising no higher than he had done, and guaranteeing to put three shots out of five between him and the saddle or buy the drinks for the crowd.

But it was the uncertainty about the other two shots that interfered with negotiations—that and the trotting man's persistent endeavor to enjoy the freedom of his own pistol arm while Eck remained in his presence.

Eck thought it was funny, and that hallucination grew on him till he got into trouble. When the wave of "Texas fever" swept over Kansas in 1880, killing off so many of the Kansas cattle, a state law stopped those "drives" which had been the life of western Kansas, and Eck Turner lost his occupation. He went farther west and south and tried to shoot the top off a man's plug hat in Colorado Springs because he insisted the fashion was two inches shorter than the man was wearing.

At La Veta he took exception to the spattering sound occasioned by an electric lamp and went about shooting the carbons in two till the city marshal engaged in repartee and shot off the end of Eck's thumb, alleging as a sufficient reason the fact that no man with two good thumbs could be a really "bad man." Eck replied in kind, and there were no applicants for the position the marshal's demise left vacant until it was known that Eck had left that region and gone to Arizona.

At Fort Wingate he had the misfortune to shoot into an ambulance driven by a very mild mannered private soldier, who pulled up a winchester and crippled Eck for life, destroying the usefulness of both shoulders and incidentally putting out his right eye.

After that Eck Turner went to Flagstaff and developed a remarkable habit of winning at faro and taking care of his money. He confessed to a record of five men slain, but he was given credit for twice as many on account of his well known modesty, and when he finally opened a boarding house for seamen in San Francisco he permitted all the turbulent habits of his cowboy life to drift away to forgetfulness.—New York Herald.

A COMEDY.

They parted with clasped hands
And kisses and burning tears.
They met in a foreign land
After some twenty years—

Met as acquaintances meet,
Smiling, tranquil eyed,
Not even the least little beat
Of the heart upon either side.

They chatted of this and that,
The nothings that make up life,
She in a Gainsborough hat
And he in black for his wife.

Ah, what a comedy this!
Neither was hurt, it appears,
Yet once she had leaned to his kiss,
And once he had known her tears.
—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

A BUSINESS ROMANCE.

It Is the True Story of the Rise of a Humble Young Man.

A young man who was working as clerk in an importing house had occasion frequently in the course of business to call at a certain large manufacturing establishment. The head of the concern took a fancy to him. One day he asked the young man what salary he was getting, what his chances of promotion were and so on. He was told and then said to the young man that he thought there was a better opportunity for him in his office than in the house where he was then employed.

The young man replied that he should of course like to better himself, but that his engagement would not permit him to leave for some time to come. The head of the house said he thought he might induce his employer to let him go. He accordingly wrote a note to the senior partner of the importing house, with whom he was on intimate terms, saying that he had formed a liking for the young man, that he believed there was a better opening for him in his office and asking that he be released.

The next day the young man came back with a letter in which his employer, while expressing regret at losing his services, said that he recognized the larger opportunity offered him, and, as he didn't want to stand in his way, released him. The clerk went to work in his new position and so confirmed his employer's good impressions that his promotion was rapid. He went from one responsible position to another until he was next to the manager of the house. A short time ago the manager died, and "our hero," now no longer a young man of course, but still in the prime of life, took his place at a salary very nearly if not quite as large as that of the president of the United States.—New York Recorder.

The Tree Killer.

One of the curious forest growths of the isthmus of Panama and lower Central America in general is the vine which the Spaniards call matapalo, or "tree killer." This vine first starts in life as a climber upon the trunks of the large trees, and, owing to its marvelously rapid growth, soon reaches the lower branches. At this point it first begins to put out its "feelers"—tender, harmless looking root shoots, which soon reach the ground and become as firmly fixed as the parent stem. These hundreds of additional sap tubes give the whole vine a renewed lease of life, and it begins to send out its aerial tendrils in all directions. These intertwine themselves tightly around every limb of the tree, even creeping to the very farthest tips and squeezing the life out of both bark and leaf. Things go on at this rate but a short while before the forest giant is compelled to succumb to the gigantic parasite which is sapping its life's blood. Within a very few years the tree rots and falls away, leaving the matapalo standing erect and hollow, like a monster vegetable devilfish lying upon its back with its horrid tentacles clasped together high in the air. Morgan, "Central America Afoot," says, "Corelike arbors of matapalo are to be seen in all directions, each testifying to the lingering death of some sylvan giant that formerly supported it."—St. Louis Republic.

Montroind.

Raikes asked Montroind once if it were true that Louis Philippe gave him a pension. He answered, "Yes, 20,000 francs a year for speaking well of him in the clubs and in England." Montroind before his death went through the form of a conversion and made his peace with the church. When the priest asked him, "You probably in old times uttered many pleasanties against religion?" "No," said he coldly, "I have been accused, and justly accused, in my lifetime of many vices. I have never been accused of being an imbecile."

Montroind was an inveterate gambler. One day he had a quarrel with some people he had been playing with at cards. He flew to Talleyrand in a state of great agitation. "Would you believe it," said he, "they threatened to throw me out of the window?" "I have always advised you," said Talleyrand very quietly, "never to play cards except on the ground floor."—San Francisco Argonaut.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Owing to a scarcity of clay, some workmen at the Union are loading today.

Fine tennis grounds have been fixed up at the residence of T. J. Andrews, Helena.

U. G. Bennett has moved with his family to Tiltonville where he has secured employment.

Invitations for the annual picnic of the Masons were issued today. It will take place on June 25.

In spite of the great number of wheels on the streets on Saturday there was a marked absence of accidents.

W. D. Wade, who was formerly engaged in the jewelry business in Wellsville, has moved his family to this city.

A street car left the track beyond the Jethro bridge yesterday, but only caused a slight delay. It was soon in place again, and no one was hurt.

The white barbers of the city are anxious to have a game of ball with the colored members of the craft. They want them to answer through the NEWS REVIEW.

The placid surface of the river was dotted with boats last night, and many people enjoyed the row. The absence of steamers takes away all fear for the timid ones.

J. G. Smith, of East End, has been smiling for several days and inquiry develops the fact that he can even laugh incoherently and at any time he so desires. The new arrival is a boy baby.

Jonathan Allison, who was injured by a run off across the river last week, is not in a serious condition. His wife was with him at the time and was also injured but not badly, each having very narrow escapes.

James Johnson says that he has no idea of suing the county because his team went over the hill at Walker's, his face was disfigured, and his wagon mashed. There is a probability that the matter will be settled by mutual agreement.

The preliminary arrangements for the Smith-Fawcett reunion, requested by the late William G. Smith, are being made. It will probably be held in Columbian park, and will be attended by many of the most prominent families in the county.

The dance given in city hall, Wellsville, Saturday night was attended as usual by Liverpool people and they composed all the crowd worth speaking of. The local people spent a very enjoyable evening and entertained their Wellsville friends as best they could.

Invitations have been received here announcing a picnic to be held by Miss Fannie and Charles Bowers at the Rockery near their pleasant country home a few miles from the city. It will take place on Thursday, and will be largely attended by their friends.

People who desire to help East Liverpool celebrate the Fourth of July and at the same time line their pockets with golden shekels are already sending in their cards. Mayor Gilbert received a letter Saturday addressed to the "Fourth of July committee," from G. W. Hibbard, of Delaware. Mr. Hibbard was anxious to furnish all the requisites for a balloon ascension, but this year at least he cannot work here.

Housekeepers, who have often wondered why Ohio river water would not settle in a reasonable time, will be glad to learn that the stewards of river packets have at last found a method that is eminently satisfactory. If a little mustard or alum is put into a bucket of water it will settle in a short time, and be as clear as crystal. A good method recently adopted by a lady in the city is to fill a receptacle with water, settle it with alum, and then put it in a pitcher within the refrigerator. She finds it a great convenience.

The absence of rain in the east has lowered the river to a point seldom known at this season of the year. Between Babb's island and the Ohio shore there is very little water, and the bottom will soon be in sight if there is not a rise in the stream. This condition has often been known before, but not until the latter part of July or the first of August. Last year the river was crossed from shore to shore by teams, but the season was much farther advanced. Rivermen are anxiously looking for rain.

Wilferd Allison, the eldest son of Isaac Allison, residing over the river, died yesterday morning after a long struggle with consumption. Deceased was attacked with the awful disease almost a year ago, but struggled manfully until the end. He was a prominent member of the Junior Mechanics, and the Chester council will have charge of the services tomorrow morning. The interment will be in Flat cemetery. C. A. Fowler, Sixth street, and the Sellers family, of this city, were relatives of the deceased. Deceased was 22 years of age, and had many friends in this city.

Ill With Fever.

Mrs. Thomas Mackey, who figured prominently in the trouble on Washington street, is now confined to her room on Bank street, and her friends fear she has the fever.

WELLSVILLE.

STRUCK BY STONES.

Officer Thorn Assaulted on Third Street.

Mahlon Myers, an East Liverpool bricklayer, is in jail anxiously waiting for some of his friends to come around, and pay Mayor Sinclair $44, the price of his liberty.

Myers was on Third street in Wellsville on Saturday evening, and quarreled with a woman who gave the name of Julia Dennis. He attempted to assault her, and the police were called. Third street was excited when Chief Warren and Officer Thorn appeared, and Myers was ready for battle. He had armed himself with stones, and when Thorn approached struck him twice in the face. Blinded by the force of the blows, Thorn could do nothing but hold down his head, and retreat. Chief Warren then took a prominent part in the battle, and in a few minutes had subdued Myers so that he was glad enough to go to jail. Two charges were entered against him, one of assaulting the woman and the other of assaulting the officer. He could not well deny either, and was fined $10 on the first charge and $20 on the other. He is a married man about 35 years of age, and has friends in this place. He did not have the price of the fines in his pocket, and his friends are working hard to raise it today.

THEY WERE SCARED.

A Small Fire Brought Thoughts of the Water Works.

An alarm of fire was sounded at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the department hastily rushed to a shed near the house of David Fitzgerald on Short street, near Twelfth. The small hose was connected, and the buckets used to extinguish the blaze, which amounted to little and only caused small damage. The big hose was not brought into service. Many expressions regarding the water works were heard when the fire was in progress, and dozens of people wondered if the pumps would hold out if there was a big fire. The election for bonds to improve the system seems to be growing more popular everyday.

PULLED THE PLACE.

Officer Morgan Broke Down the Door of a Disorderly House.

When train 41 pulled in this morning Officer Morgan noticed Blanche O'Dell and a stranger leave the cars. He knew Blanche by reputation and followed the couple. They went to Blanche's place on Third street, and when all was quiet the officer broke down the door and arrested the pair. The man gave his name as R. J. Reynolds, of New York, and paid $10 and costs for being in a disorderly house. The woman, as keeper of the house was fined and paid the same amount.

THEY WERE MARRIED.

A Troublesome Case Settled in Probate Court.

Squire Firestone this morning said the words in the office of Judge Young which made William Allaback and Miss Amanda Brown man and wife. It will be remembered that this couple were arrested here for living together without the formality of a license in Wellsville, and were sent to Lisbon for trial. The matter was settled by the wedding.

Personal.

George Appel spent yesterday in Minerva, the guest of friends.

William Yast, of Minerva, who has been the guest of friends here, has returned home.

Ross McKim, of Pittsburg, spent Sunday in this place.

Harry Leith has returned from a visit to Pittsburg.

Taken to Pittsburg.

Jack Everson, the well known amateur ball player, was taken on Saturday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Everson, to a Pittsburg hospital, where he will receive treatment. The young man has been ill for some time.

Buried at Highlandtown.

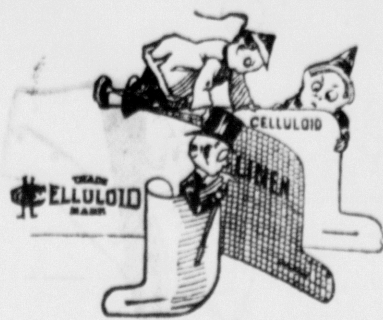

The funeral of the late Mrs. Crawford took place from the late residence yesterday, with interment in the Highlandtown cemetery. Services were conducted by Reverend Selby and attended by many friends.

"CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid," thus making them strong, durable and waterproof. When soiled they can be cleaned by simply wiping off with a wet cloth. No other waterproof goods are made with this interlining, consequently no other goods can possibly give satisfaction. Do not forget that every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

Insist upon goods so marked and refuse anything else if offered. If your dealer does not keep them you can procure a sample from us direct by enclosing amount and stating size and whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

BRIGHTON WAS BEATEN.

first all right, Harding going to second. Fuller sent a hot one to third and reached first, Harding being retired. Boyle sent up a high fly to short left, which three men went after and let drop and Murrin came home. Thompson hit safely and a combination of errors let Fullman and Boyle cross the home plate and an error by Howard allowed Thompson to score. The game now stood thirteen to twelve in favor of Liverpool, and hard-hitting Brickly Molter at the bat, with Farrow on second and the chances for a run seemed good to the visitors; but Molter was retired at first and the victory was ours, as the Keystone lads had to catch the train for home. Following is the score:

Howard was a tower of strength to the home club.

Umpire Caler robbed Brickly Molter of a nice two bagger.

Boyle caught a splendid game, and threw nicely to second.

Base Ball.

The Irish town baseball club went to East End Saturday and learned the national game by a score of 12 to 2. The East End club is now preparing to challenge the world.

The Smoky Rows and the Grey Eagles played another game Saturday, and the score stood 15 to 13 after an exciting contest. It was in favor of the Smoky Row champions.

A Youthful Grandfather.

Wants His Fees.

When the case of Amanda Martin against the street railway company comes up in Lisbon next week there will be difficulty in securing at least one witness. City Engineer George states that had he been subpoenaed last Friday he would not have served until his bill for surveying the trestle was paid and will demand the money before he goes to Lisbon. He did the work at the request of the plaintiffs in the present case and they will probably want his testimony.

Observing Their Anniversary.

The Maccabees will this evening celebrate their fourth anniversary at their lodge room in the Wells building. The affair will be made attractive, and all the members are expected to be present. The order marched to Riverview cemetery 21 strong yesterday afternoon, and after passing through the impressive decoration service with Reverend Hufler they placed flowers upon the grave of one deceased member.

A Troublesome Pair.

The fat woman and the man with his arm in a sling, who caused the township trustees trouble a few weeks ago, have again become prominent by a row at a Fifth street residence. They are selling some sort of medicine, and if they can get in a house, and the people will not buy, they become boisterous and impudent. They are anything but popular, and have been threatened with arrest on several occasions.

Here From Salineville.

A party of young men drove from Salineville to this city this morning, and were today the guests of Clem McQuilken, West Market street. They came over in a conveyance large enough to hold them all, and on the road were delayed by an accident to the equipage. It was repaired as well as their limited knowledge would permit, and the jolly party arrived here without injury.

Lawn Fete.

On Thursday evening, June 13, at Mr. Aten's residence, West End, the ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will give a lawn fete and ice cream festival. Admission but 10 cents. You have a cordial invitation. Music by brass band.

Died In Agony.

Charles Cartwright, a potter of Steubenville, died on Saturday of lockjaw, after intense suffering for several days. One week ago while walking in the yard in thin-soled shoes he stepped on a piece of board and a rusty nail penetrated his left foot. His foot began to swell and symptoms of lockjaw set in and he grew worse until he died.
